On The Cover - The Fay Club

Our friends at The Fay Club, here in Fitchburg, were generous enough to host some of our photography sessions. This High Victorian Gothic historic home features many remarkable decorative details of the period, from woodwork, to wall coverings and ironwork, including seven lovely fireplaces. Designed by the famous architect and AIA co-founder John Upjohn, the beloved building has been a fixture in downtown Fitchburg since its completion in 1883. George Flagg Fay, who had amassed his riches by investing in the railroad business, lived in the home, and then passed it on to his daughter Lucy. She resided in the home until 1910, when she accepted a marriage proposal and planned to move to California. Miss Lucy decided to donate the building to the local Park Club in her father's memory. To honor Miss Lucy and their departed club member the club was rechristened The Fay Club. The building, which was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1978, has housed The Club ever since and continues to offer fine dining and social events to its members.

Since the 15th Century, the fireback has been an indispensable part of fireplace tradition in Europe which colonists then carried to America.

Add that touch of elegance and history to your fireplace and greatly enhance the focal point of the room. Standing at the back of the fireplace, firebacks protect brickwork from damage while radiating heat from the fire out into the room.

Firebacks are designed to rest on the floor of the hearth. If extra height is desired, some of our firebacks can be paired with "boots," as indicated (*X670130 or † CFB-F) to hold the fireback upright and raise it off the hearth floor. Boots can be used with gas log or wood burning fireplaces.

Additional Photography - Fitchburg Historical Society

The Fitchburg Historical Society is a community-based nonprofit organization on a mission to protect, preserve, and interpret the history of Fitchburg, MA.

Established in 1892 by Henry A. Willis, the Fitchburg Historical Society's eight members met in private homes to discuss the early history of their city. These essays and talks were eventually published in books called the Fitchburg Historical Society Proceedings. The founders pledged to encourage others to engage in local history and preserve it for future citizens.

In 1912 the Historical Society moved to 50 Grove Street. The building was kindly donated by James F.D. Garfield, publisher of the Fitchburg Sentinel. The building was designed by H.M. Francis & Sons and built by J. Dudley Littlehale. The Fitchburg Historical Society decided to move to Grove St. because their membership was growing rapidly, and they needed a permanent place to house and display Fitchburg-area artifacts and books.

About a century later, the Fitchburg Historical Society decided to relocate for a second time. They purchased the historic Phoenix Building at 781 Main Street and moved into the new facility in 2019. Today, Executive Director Susan Navarre, plus her talented staff and dedicated volunteers, are working on new projects that keep the interest in local history alive. This includes collecting and cataloguing hundreds of donated artifacts, hosting the FATV documentary show "I Remember When..." and working with interns to create new exhibits and research projects.

Our Community - Annual Fitchburg Blacksmith Art & Music Festival

We are ardent supporters of the arts and education in our community, In 2003, we founded the Annual Blacksmithing Festival. It's held each fall in our town of Fitchburg, Massachusetts, at Riverfront Park, along the bank of the Nashua River. This free event is open to the public and has garnered substantial support from the City of Fitchburg, Cultural Council, and neighboring states.

The festival strives to raise awareness of the art and craft of blacksmithy. It promotes a congenial fellowship among students, hobbyists and professionals alike. Participants bring portable forging stations to the park for a full day of work on projects and competition. Each year a well-known Master Blacksmith is invited to judge the competition and demonstrate skills. These live demonstrations have become a highlight of the event, alongside local crafts, food, and music. Substantial cash prizes and award ribbons are given.
